70th Illinois Mother of the Year® Announced

Evanston mother honored for service to community, philanthropy and family

Washington, DC (January 9, 2020) – – Today, Margaret Storey of Evanston was announced as the 2020 Illinois Mother of the Year®. She was nominated for her contributions as a mother in her home, workplace and community. She is the 70th woman in Illinois history to hold this honor.

Mrs. Storey is the inspirational mother of one and a Professor of History and Associate Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at DePaul University. She is being recognized for her work as a parent advocate for children with medical complexity and disability.

Mrs. Storey, along with honorees from states across the US, will be recognized during the 85th National Convention of American Mothers, Inc. in Washington, DC, April 19th – 21st. She will also serve as an ambassador for Illinois mothers during visits with members of Congress. One honoree will be named the National Mother of the Year® during a gala fundraiser for the American Mothers’ “Golden Rule Grant Fund” on April 21st.

“For 85 years American Mothers, Inc. has held the responsibility of searching for and selecting the Mother of the Year in every state, district and territory in our country,” said Connell Branan, Board President. “Like all of the honorees before her, Mrs. Storey now joins the ranks of Illinois history, with the opportunity to become a part of American history as she represents the mothers in her state and is considered for the honor of 2020 National Mother of the Year.”

For a full list of State Mother of the Year® honorees please visit AmericanMothers.org.

Nominations for Mother of the Year® are accepted annually, Mothers Day – September 15, at AmericanMothers.org.
